OFP Timber Framed Homes Launch New Website

Following months of development new website is now live.

OFP Timber Framed Homes has announced the launch of a new website. Following a number of months development OFP hope they can now offer a new much improved, more user friendly site. With a wealth of useful information added to the website and a simple navigation structure, visitors will be able to find what they need quickly and efficiently.

Also new to the website is the case study section which details project information from recent developments, including commercial and large scale residential projects. For any timber frame queries or technical questions, Managing Director Alastair Narraway has established an "Ask Alastair" area where he will directly respond to any questions relating to timber frame construction.

Over the last two months OFP has seen a distinct upturn in both enquiries and orders and hopes this trend continues for all clients and supply chain partners.
