GEZE UK Welcomes Lee Jodka as Area Sales Manager

GEZE UK has reaffirmed its dedication to assisting customers with technical counsel and product advice through the recent appointment of Lee Jodka, who has joined the esteemed manufacturer specializing in door and window control systems. Lee assumes the role of Area Sales Manager, responsible for overseeing the supply and installation of automatic doors in London and the South East.

Lee will focus on cultivating strong relationships with key stakeholders among main contractors, façade experts, specialist contractors, and end-users. In this capacity, he will furnish guidance and technical support, propose solutions from the company's extensive array of automatic operators, and conduct site visits and surveys. With 19 years of experience in the construction industry, Lee boasts a wealth of knowledge. His career began in the architectural ironmongery sector but has since encompassed roles in technical sales, specification, and account management.

Lee expressed his enthusiasm about joining GEZE UK, highlighting the company's longstanding history and its prominent position in the door automation sector. He emphasized the company's comprehensive service, ranging from specification and installation to commissioning and after-sales support. Leveraging his industry expertise and familiarity with regulations, Lee is determined to provide his customers with suitable and compliant solutions.

Andy Iredale, the National Sales Manager for Automatic Doors, and Window Technology, welcomed Lee to the team, acknowledging his extensive experience across the industry. He affirmed Lee's status as an asset to the company and a pivotal contributor to its ongoing expansion efforts.
