VORTICE appoints additional Technical Manager

Nathan Barlow has joined the Technical team at VORTICE as Technical Manager, working with architects, specifiers and contractors on technical ventilation specifications. Nathan has worked in the building services industry since 1993 and has a wide range of experience in commercial and industrial mechanical HVAC services and systems.

Over the past decade Nathan has specialised in the design of large bespoke air handling units, predominantly for the leisure industry. In his spare time Nathan enjoys dog training and is a film buff.

Director Richard Williams said: "We are delighted that Nathan has joined us, bringing significant expertise in commercial and industrial ventilation. He will be a valued addition to our Technical team."
